

Project Brief: Myself (Personal Résumé Website)

I would like to have my final project be a résumé website for myself. It really is something I have always wanted to do, and I believe it would be something that would really keep my interest. I would have separate pages for different aspects of my résumé such as one for academic accomplishments, skills, and past jobs. The emphasis would be on ease-of-use, and will be simple while also being interesting. I would either like to make the UI very unique, or make a play on another popular website.